Acknowledgment

I would like to profoundly express my gratitude to my mentor and guide MR. MAYANK TOMAR who introduced me about the HVCO. Through her expert guidance, I was able to complete this project. I express my gratitude towards her guiding hand.

I am also Thankful to the AISS for providing me an opportunity to learn about society in such an early phase of life. I would like to thank my mates who provided me the help and support that I needed to approach this project with my full potential.

INTRODUCTION

Not every job performed by children should be considered child labor that has to be eradicated. It is typically viewed as favorable when children and teenagers who have reached the legal working age participate in activities that don't harm their health, personal development, or interfere with their education. This covers tasks like helping out in the family company or making extra money during the summer or after school. These sorts of activities benefit children's growth and the wellbeing of their families; they provide them knowledge and experience and serve to get them ready to be contributing adults in society.

Work that robs children of their youth, their potential, and their dignity and is detrimental to their physical and mental development is sometimes referred to as "child labor." It refers to labor that: is hazardous to children's mental, physical, social, or moral development; and/or interferes with their education by denying them the chance to attend class, forcing them to drop out early, or asking them to try to balance school attendance with overly demanding employment.

Whether or not a certain sort of "job" qualifies as "child labor" depends on the kid's age, the nature and duration of the work, the working environment, and the goals that various nations have. The response differs between nations.

The worst kind of child labor entail the enslavement of children, their separation from their families, their exposure to dangerous situations and diseases, and/or their abandonment on the streets of big cities, sometimes at a very young age.

While there are many distinct types of child labor, the ILO Convention No. 182's Article 3 defines the worst kinds as those that must end immediately.

ABOUT NGO

Youth Empowerment Foundation is association to provide guidance these bolts through their drives and projects. Engaging adolescents to develop, learn and be the torchbearers for what's to come is one of the significant effect's association means to accomplish. YEF is a non-benefit association established in June 2017 by Mr. Rambabu Sharma. Roused by his own life venture, the originator alongside his group has established a solid framework to instruct the oppressed offspring of the general public and thus overcome any issues among them and the world. As clarified by the organizer himself in his story, destitution and training are inseparably connected, in light of the fact that individuals living in neediness might quit going to class, so they can work which leaves them without proficiency that they need for their vocations. Training in all various structures is a key for breaking the pattern of neediness. It increments food security, diminishes ailing health, upgrades way of life and further develops orientation balance. It shows youngsters what they can and ought to anticipate from grown-ups and thus additionally shows grown-ups the advantages of regarding their kids' privileges. With the various types of preparing and drives, for example, hamari pathshala, Candle making, English learning, PC learning and preparing, YEF is giving a stage that will assist these kids with developing for themselves as well concerning the general public. Abilities instructed by YEF like an extra language, or some other expertise assist these youngsters with being all alone and henceforth be the most grounded mainstays of the general public in each perspective. It additionally assists with creating certainty which thusly adds to their brain advancement and emotional wellness. Having the option to admire themselves for their professions and being self-subordinate leaves them with a flash that draws out the most incredible in these kids.

We also distribute food packet and clothes to the migrant workers and help them by organization webinar how they reached home safely with the help of this NGO without any hesitation and made the poster also. We visualize an informed India where each individual has the amazing chance to develop and learn. Until we understand our secret potential, we trust that somebody will come and lift us from our antagonistic circumstance. That help is impermanent. What happens when nobody is free? we break. This is the narrative of each life that is attempting to make due. We neglect to understand their actual potential and left them there by giving a few cash and garments. They become subject to help and continue to sit tight for the following individual. Their life's stuck at same spot, position and circumstance. Consider the possibility that, when there is no next individual, they enjoy wrongdoing to take care of themselves and their family - Hence we fizzle.

ACHIEVEMENTS

The third iteration of the "Plan For Every Child (P4EC)-Girls Get Equal" National Conference took place in New Delhi from December 5 to 7, 2018. The three days of in-depth discussions had as their goal the formalisation of specific action items to improve child protection systems in India, particularly for girls and young women, to secure their welfare and the right to a decent existence. The Plan For Every Child National Conference, which was organised by Plan India in collaboration with the Ministry of Social Justice and Empowerment, drew attendees from a wide range of professions, including lawyers, public servants, journalists, representatives of civil society organisations, experts, and practitioners in the field of child rights both domestically and abroad. Mr. Rakesh Srivastava, Secretary, Ministry of Women and Child Development, as well as Ms. Upma Srivastava, Additional Secretary, Ministry of Social Justice and Empowerment, were present for the opening session. The keynote lecture on prevention, justice, and responsibility for children was given during the conference by Hon'ble Mr. Justice Madan B. Lokur of the Supreme Court of India.

The country's systemic approach to bolstering child safety was improved during the 2018 P4EC National Conference. More than 80 distinguished speakers from various backgrounds discussed the need of improving child safety systems in every nation's administration. The three-day conference allowed for numerous sessions, presentations, and discussions on various aspects of child protection, including the need for research and evidence building; role of media, communities, grassroots institutions, executive, and legislature in putting the last girl first; integrative approaches to child protection; and more. The key partners focused on systems to create strong safety nets for girls and young women with a vision to enable children, especially girls, to learn, lead, decide, and thrive.

The unique session on children's experiences and views of safety at home, school, and community, titled "Make our World Safe - Who is Accountable?" was one of the conference's standout moments. Participatory consultation with kids aged 5 to 10 in four states with Plan India programme regions was used to collect the voices. The goal of the session was to record children's voices in support of their growth and safety, especially those of girls, whose concerns and voices are sometimes ignored due to a presumption of incapacity. The Plan for Every Child National Conference served as a venue for discussion and idea exchange on topics pertaining to kids in challenging situations in 2016 and 2017.

SELF EVALUATION

These children admired me to learn new stuff. They believed me to be holy messenger for them who might carry amusing to their exhausting life. This affection and regard made me care for these kids a great deal. I in areal sense began pondering doing a ton for these children. I would once in a while get them food and chocolates. Not many of these youngsters have appropriate garments to wear. I even gave not many of them garments. These kids likewise imparted an awareness of certain expectations and association in me. I realized I needed to show these kids anything that I might in light of the fact that these are the eventual fate of our country. I would get up each day and ponder various things I could show them or do with them. I became liable for themselves as well as their learning. I needed to orchestrate and put together for their specialty and art material. What contacted me the most was that these youngsters even went up to learn on a day when it was pouring vigorously. All doused they sat anxiously and trusted that their educators will come and instruct them. Their readiness to learn made me esteem my learnings and schooling. These youngsters figured out how to make an exceptional spot in my heart and our relationship will not certainly not end with the finish of my administration hours. I will keep visiting them and educating them.
